CZAR MUST FACE A GREAT BATTLE

Routed Army Reforms and Prepares to Halt Teuton Drive

LATTER UNCHECKED.

Germans Capture Halicz and Force Dniester at Every Point—Russian Losses Are Heavy.

Petrograd, June 29—Officers of the Russian general staff state that they have satisfactorily achieved the regrouping of their forces necessitated by the German Galician campaign, and that they stand ready effectively to oppose a further advance of the Austro-German forces in Galicia, or in Southern Russia. The Gnila Lipa River, to which the Russian forces have retired, flows south from above Rohatyn, branching from the Dniester River near Halicz, and with steep banks and bluffs provides admirable facilities for defense.

Further eastward the Zlota Lipa, another tributary of the Dniester and paralleling the Gnila Lipa at a distance of 15 miles, would, in the opinion of Russian critics, offer even a stronger obstacle to a German advance, since besides having natural advantages it is supported with a good railroad line.

The most important point of the present front is that portion of the Vistula just north of the River San. Here the Germans in considerable numbers are attempting to force the river and by so doing flank the Russian positions along the Tanew, which as yet have shown no signs of yielding to the frontal attacks. The wooded approach to the river at this point allows the Germans successfully to mask their operations and to conceal their batteries but the record of the fighting up to Saturday shows that no real advantage has yet been gained by the Germans.

The importance of this move is well recognized by the Russians, since if successful it would unite the German forces on the left side of the Vistula with those operating on the other side, in Lublin province, against the Tanew front.

German activity appears to be limited at present to the Dniester and Vistula Rivers. In the region of Lemberg no serious fight is reported.

REPLY WILL BE FAVORABLE

Ambassador Gerard So Informs State Department.

Washington, June 29—Officials at the State Department made it known yesterday that Ambassador Gerard had reported that the indications in Berlin are that the German reply to President Wilson's note on the submarine issue will be "favorable."

The details of Ambassador Gerard's report, the first on the subject since the receipt of the President's note in Berlin, were not disclosed by department officials, and it is not known whether he forecasted the probable terms of the forthcoming German note. He did not indicate when the note would be sent forward, but the expectations here is that it will be about ten days, at least, before the German note is received.

The Ambassador's prediction that the note probably would be "favorable" is not regarded by well informed persons as meaning that the German government has decided to grant the demands of President Wilson with regard to her submarine operations. It is regarded only as indicating that the attitude of the German government is most friendly and conciliatory, and that Germany will endeavor to submit proposals for an adjustment of the situation such as the United States can accept.

Roscoe Wise, from near Bridgewater, Augusta Co., fell from a cherry tree Sunday and broke his neck. The wonderful part of this happening is the fact that Wise was at a late hour Sunday night still perfectly conscious. While in a critical condition, he never theless has some chance of reovery.

MONROE DOCTRINE NOT LAW

Famous Instrument Only A Declaration Of Foreign Policy

The declarations of the Monroe Doctrine is an executive declaration of tion of an act or resolution of ever our own Congress, and therefore form no part of the municipal law of the United States; nor do they have any of that authority which European states attach to a royal ordinance. Indeed Congress has never been willing to commit the nation to any compact or pledge upon the subject.

This is apparent from the fact that our national assembly declined to enter into or send official delegates to the congress at Panama in 1826, when some of the Spanish-American states met to consider means of carrying the doctrine into effect. So, it is readily to be presumed that the Monroe Doctrine is not an international law in any conceivable sense.

The doctrine has for its objects the maintenance of peace on the Western Continent and the preservation of the integrity of the American States. In this respect it bears a relation to the American States, resembling in some respects that borne by the principle of the balance of power to the states of Europe, and has the same claim to consideration from the point of view of international law.

If not an international law, then what is its status? The Monroe Doctrine is an Executive declaration of the course that the United States would follow in international affairs; it is the avowal of an existing Administration of what its own foreign policy would be and what it thinks should ever be the policy of the country on a subject of paramount and permanent interest, the relations of the United States with the powers of Europe as touching the South American republics.

DEATH OF NED SCOTT

(Special Dispatch to the Gazette)

Richmond, June 29—Ned Scott, chief clerk under State Auditor Moore, and known throughout Virginia, died this morning in his sixty second year.

Governor Stuart today declined to interfere in the case of Leo Kidd a Richmond young man, convicted of causing the death of Pauline Thorpe in an automobile by reckless driving. His mother asked the governor to remit a three months' jail sentence

HOT WEATHER SUGGESTIONS.

Dr. Wiley Says the Lip Kiss Must go.—Must Use Cheek or Forehead.

If a man eats moderately and abstains from tobacco and alcohol he may work hatless in the sun every day through the summer without fear of heat prostration or sun stroke. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, food and sanitation expert, said so in Washington yesterday, in discussing summer health.

In addition to alcohol, Dr. Wiley also scored sweet soda fountain drinks as harmful in hot weather "The drinks obtained at a soda fountain contain too much sugar to be healthful in summer," said the doctor. "If you get such drinks, see that they use the syrup sparingly."

"A kiss is nothing but a sign of affection, and therefore is as effective on the cheek or forehead as on the lips," said Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, in discussing the "lip kiss." "If you must show your affection with a lip kiss," he continued, "use judgment as to the danger of disease."

Dr. Wiley expressed the opinion that the "lip kiss" must go.

MORROW TO SUCCEED GOETHAL

Former Engineer Commisioner of District of Columbia to Go to Panama

Washington, June 29—Col. Jay J. Morrow, Engineer Commissioner of the District from May 2, 1907, to December 21, 1908, will succeed Col. George W. Goethals as governor of the Panama canal zone.

The announcement of Colonel Morrow's selection was made today at the War Department, following the issuance of orders relieving him from his station at Portland, Ore., so that he may reach the zone in time to take office August 1.

MORE MIDDIES ARE ACCUSED

Total of Defendants in Goughing Case Brought up to 23

TESTIMONY OFFERED.

"Very Foolish For Man Who Finds Dope That is Good Stuff to Report," Says Y. M. C. A. Officer.

Annapolis, Md., June 29—With seven more midshipmen made defendants in connection with the gouging and cribbing scandal and other irregularities in examinations at the Naval Academy now under investigation by a court of inquiry, the Government rested its side of the affair temporarily, and the defense yesterday took up the examinations of witnesses. A total of 13 witnesses were heard by the inquisitors in the course of the day.

The seven additional defendants all of whom gave incriminating testimony against themselves or implicated other midshipmen at last week's sessions, were haled before the court yesterday morning and advised by Captain Russell, the president, of the right to engage counsel and cross-examine witnesses.

Six of the seven stated that for the present they would do without counsel, but James E. Waddell, of Illinois, second class, appeared in the afternoon with Lieut. G. W. Kenyon, of the navy, as his adviser. The other six new defendants are Charles M. Reagle, Ohio; Edward H. Jones, Pennsylvania; Karl Keller, Pennsylvania; David Glick, Pennsylvania; William H. Hopkins, Jr., Tennessee; all of the second class, and Horace R. Wittaker, Pennsylvania, third class. This makes a total of 23 ensigns or midshipmen who are now formally accused, including the original seven recommended for dismissal by Superintendent Fullam.

Several other midshipmen were heard as character witnesses and all testified that their classmates maintained absolute confidence in them, and that the prevailing sentiment is that they are not guilty of any intentional wrong.

In the course of the examination of R. C. Swink, member of the first class, the court admitted as evidence a number of papers, some of which were "dope" sheets and others sheets of actual examinations given in the past, the idea of the defense being to show the similarity in appearance of these papers and to support the contention that a midshipman might not recognize an examination sheet, as compared to some other sheet circulated in advance of an examination.

Like other witnesses who preceded him, Swink stated that he did not see a sheet containing questions of an examination in advance of the test, but added there was a large amount of "dope" in general circulation, much of which appeared in the examinations.

BIG SLIDE THREATENS

Panama Canal Closed To Ships Of Over 26 Feet Draft

Panama, June 29—The slide on the west side of the Culebra Cut section of the Panama Canal, north of Contractors' Hill, has closed the channel to ships having a draft of more than 26 feet. The passenger ship Kroonland, which draws 29 feet, has been delayed in sailing, but it is expected that she will depart today.

The slide, though only a temporary one, is regarded as the forerunner of an important earth movement along the entire west bank for a distance of 4,000 feet north of Contractors' Hill and 1,500 feet back from the canal axis, including a large section of Zion Hill.

Changes among the high officers of the Panama Canal, indicating a complete reorganization of the personnel of the operating department of the Canal Zone, are announced.

BULGARIA IS PREPARED

Better Able to Enter War Than When Balkan Conflict Broke.

The Bulgarian army is now far better prepared for war than it was for the Balkan war of 1912. It comprises four divisions of 120,000 men ready for action, with another ten divisions of 300,000 men of first line reserves, who could be mobilized in a few days. If necessity should arise, this force could be more than doubled.

Bulgaria's entry into the war as the foe of Turkey would relieve pressure on the Allies to the south. Adrianople, which the Bulgarians were forced to hand back to the Turks after the last Balkan struggle, has been denuded of its arms for use in the Dardanelles campaign. This ought easily to fall to the Bulgarians, who could then cross down to Rodosto on the Sea of Marmora. This would cut Constantinople off from Keshan, where the Turks have concentrated their forces for the operations on the Gallipoli peninsula At least, the Turks would be reduced to communications by sea.

Bulgaria no longer demands Saloniki. Her claims are small compared with those of the other Balkan nations, being confined to the really Bulgarian portion of Macedonia with Kavalla and its natural outlets on the Aegean sea.

RACE FOR LIFE IN AIRSHIP.

Plucky Britons Escape, But Are Badly Burned

London, June 29—A dramatic air duel, in which a British aeroplane reconnoitering over the Belgian town of Poelcappelle, at a height of 4,000 feet met and engaged a large German biplane which had double engines and propellers, is described by the eyewitness at the British army headquarters in a narrative made public by the official press bureau. He writes:

"The German machine first circled around ours, at the same time shooting a machine gun, but so far as known not inflicting any damage. Then our observer fired 50 rounds in return at a range of less than 200 yards. It had some effect, for the hostile biplane was seen to waver, and after more shots its engine stopped. The enemy airplane then dived to a level of 2,000 feet, where it again flattened its course, flying slowly and erratically.

"Under heavy anti-aircraft fire from below our pilot turned toward our line to complete his reconnaissance. When his machine was hit he decided to make for home, but the petrol tank had been pierced, and as the aeroplane glided downward on a slant the petrol was set alight by the exhaust and ran blazing down the front of the body of the aeroplane which traveled on to the accompaniment of a rattle of musketry as the unused rounds of machine gun ammunition exploded in the heat and the pilot's loaded revolver was discharged.

The pilot, however, did not lose control and the aeroplane proceeded steadily on a downward course. Before it had reached the ground a large part of the framework had been destroyed. Even the hardwood blades of the propeller were so burned that the propeller ceased to revolve.

"When the machine finally landed back of our lines both officers had been severely burned and the pilot, climbing out of the blazing wreck, tripped over a wire stay and sprained his ankle. The few serviceable portions of the aeroplane were then collected and removed under the sharpnel of the German guns."

RICHMOND THEATER.

A big spectacular feature has been secured as part of the program for tonight's performance at the Richmond Theatre picturizing the review by President Wilson on the Great Atlantic Fleet, which assembled in the waters of the Hudson about May 1st, of this year. This picture has been secured at considerable cost and is bringing to your very doors identically the same pageant which thousands and thousands of people travel miles to see. This picture alone is worth more than the price of admission and is in two parts, being specially obtained for tonight's performance.

ANOTHER DEBT FIGHT LIKELY

Who Shall Collect and Disburse Old Dominion Award Issue?

CHANCE FOR A BIG FEE

Bondholders Desire to Avoid Heavy Expenses and Want Court to Appoint a Receiver.

Washington, June 29—New litigation, which will have the effect of postponing the final settlement of the old Virginia and West Virginia debt controversy, is now threatened in the Supreme Court of the United States, which two weeks ago rendered a judgement of $13,000,000 against the younger Commonwealth.

The trouble now is over who shall collect and disburse the $13,000,000 judgment. The State of Virginia, in whose name the suit was prosecuted believes it should take charge of this task; but has developed that the holders of the old Virginia debt certificates, the real beneficiaries of the Court's recent decision, do not want the Virginia Debt Commission to handle these funds, desiring instead that the Court name a receiver who shall act under the Court's jurisdiction and direction.

As a result of this development, it was stated, the State of Virginia and the holders of the debt certificates will clash over the spoils when the Supreme Court convenes next fall. The firm of Brown Bros. & Co., New York bankers and brokers, holds and represents the holders of the bulk of the Virginia debt certificates, the outstanding amount of which is said to be in the neighborhood of $15,000,000 It is declared that this firm financed the fight which was made in Virginia's name for recovery of the claim against West Virginia, and that therefore the certificate holders feel their friends should be named the receiver to collect and disburse the money.

According to statements made in Washington, Virginia will ask the Court next fall to name or authorize the Virginia Debt Commissioners to collect and disburse the $13,000,000. This commission is composed of a half a dozen prominent Virginians. If 5 per cent. commission is allowed the fee will amount to $650,000. The debt certificate holders are anxious that the collection and disbursement of the $13,000,000 be attended with as little expenses as possible, and, according to statements in Washington they wish to avoid the payment of any huge fees to a commission.

Major Holmes Conrad, Solicitor-General of the United States under President Cleveland, in behalf of the certificate holders, has already taken action looking to the naming of a receiver, having filed this motion with the Court shortly before it adjourned. His idea, from what can be learned in Washington, is that one or two men be authorized to handle the $13,000,000 and that these men be held strictly accountable to the Supreme Court and be under the jurisdiction of the court.

By this procedure, it is asserted, the money can be easily collected, if West Virginia does not fight payment, and disbursed without much delay and expense.

WILL CURB MEXICO

United States Will Endeavor to Stop Revolutions in Country

Washington, June 29—The United States government has determined so far as it can prevent, there shall be no further revolutionary movements in Mexico, and that American territory, at any rate, shall not be used as a base for such expeditions.

This, it became known officially yesterday, led to the arrest of Gen. Victoriano Huerta and Gen. Pascaul Orozco at El Paso, and forms the ground for strict surveillance now being maintained by agents of the Department of Justice on Gens. Felix Diaz, Mondragon, Blanquet and Felipe Angeles and other Mexicans of prominence now living in the United States.

El Paso, June 29—In spite of the detention here of Gen. Victoriano Huerta, under Federal bond, events pointed to continued activity in the new revolutionary movement across the Rio Grande.

Doubt was expressed by some close observers whether Huerta would make any effort to cross into Mexico even should he be released at his hearing July 1. Huerta declared that as soon as he is released he will continue his interrupted journey to San Francisco.

WILL NOT REVOKE ORDER.

Reductions of Wages at Navy Yard Must Stand.

Washington, June 29.—After an hour's conference with Secretary of the Navy Daniels yesterday afternoon, N. P. Alifas, president of District 44, International Association of Machinists, and other members of a delegation that waited upon him in an endeavor to have him revoke the order for a reduction in wages of Washington navy yard machinists, effective July 1, retired without effecting any change. Mr. Daniels declared he had no discretion in the matter and had taken the action with personal regret.

It is the general impression that the reduction must go into effect and that this is shared by the 1,200 machinists involved is shown by the statements of the committeemen made last night.

"The administration," declared one, "has been trying to practice all sorts of economy on everybody, and we, for one organization, are tired of it."

William H. Johnston, general president of the machinists, and one of yesterday's delegation, told the Secretary of the Navy that "the organized machinists throughout the country had never submitted to a reduction, and would not now."

WOMAN IS FOUND STABBED TO DEATH

New York Police Confronted With Mystery They Fail to Solve

MURDER OR SUICIDE

Knife Wounds Leave No Marks on Garment and Money and Jewelry of Victim Undisturbed.

New York, June 29—Baffled at every turn, the police admit today that they have no solution for the mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Grace Fox, sister-in-law of the once famous actress, Della Fox, who was found with twenty knife wounds in her body.

Close examination at the morgue today revealed several stab wounds in the woman's back.

These discredited the first police theory that Mrs. Fox had slashed herself in a fit of hysterical frenzy and turned the investigation to the theory that a "Jack the Ripper" attacked her while she was taking a nap in her Beacon Hall apartment at 618 West 142nd street, and then left the building by the fire escape.

Detectives are mystified over the fact that Mrs. Fox's night gown, the only garment she wore when she was found bore no evidence of knife thrusts. But Inspector Faurot declared the gown was so flimsy that a knife point might have passed through it without leaving a trace. Detectives also advance the theory that her assailant might have rolled the gown up beneath her arms in order to wield the knife more freely.

William H. Fox, the knife victim's husband, is an employe of the National Cash Register Company. He could offer no theories to aid the police.

"From what I have seen in the case thus far," said Inspector Faurot when he left Beacon Hall to continue his investigation by a further examination of the woman's body at the morgue; "I am inclined to think it is as nicde, but we can find no knife. That is the puzzling feature of the case."

The Fox apartment is so situated, however, that it would be easy for an intruder to get in and out of the place without being seen. The bed room window near which the woman was found semi-conscious at the time opens on a fire escape which leads down to an open courtyard three floors below. The courtyard abuts on an open lot, through which one might escape undetected.

Detectives who came first immediately searched the three expensively furnished rooms throughout, but they were rewarded with little that might help solve the mystery. Mrs. Fox's jewelry in her dresser drawer and $40 in cash near by had not been disturbed, apparently. Except for the blood stains there were no signs of disorder.

PARADE OF TEMPLARS

Inspection Which Followed on Washington Street Witnessed by Many Persons.

The streets were alive with old and young late yesterday to witness the appearance of the Knights Templar upon the streets, as is generally the case when it is known that that organization is to parade. The Templars, after gathering at their asylum in the Masonic Temple on Cameron street, marched to Fairfax street over which thoroughfare they proceeded to Washington street, where an inspection took place. They were preceded by the Indian Guard Band. The scene was impressive and was witnessed by the many who gathered on King and Washington streets.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon the members of Old Dominion Commandery, No. 11, and of the Fredericksburg, Culpeper and The Plains Commanderies went to Mt. Vernon and had a dinner at the cafe of T. F. Ellis, returning to Alexandria at four o'clock.

At 6:45 o'clock there was a joint conclave in the Masonic Temple, when Grand Commander Robert Francis Taylor, of Roanoke was received.

Later the members of these organizations, headed by the Indian Guard Band, formed and marched to the place of inspection. Upon their arrival the roll was called by A. G. Uhler, secretary of Old Dominion Commandery, and fifty-one responded to their names, after which the inspection was conducted by Right Eminent Sir W. W. Field, of Culpeper Commandery, inspector of District No. 4.

Following the inspection the members proceeded in a body to the Westminster Building, where a reception was tendered Commander Taylor and his wife, the latter being received by the members of Martha Washington Chapter, Order of Eastern Star. Mrs. Taylor is grand worthy matron of the Order of Eastern Star of Virginia.

Afterward there was a buffet supper and a musicale was given, including vocal solos by Miss Marguerite Field, Mrs. Sherman B. Fowler, and Wilmer J. Waller. There was also a piano duet by Mrs. Edgar Warfield, Jr., and Miss Gerlacher.

TRIALS BY OUTSIDERS.

A scathing rebuke to the New York press and its attitude in the present Harry K. Thaw sanity trial was delivered by Justice Hendrick, the presiding judge, at the opening of the trial yesterday.

"The trial of this case by the newspapers, both as to how it should be conducted and what evidence should and should not be introduced, must stop," said Justice Hendrick.

"I want to warn the newspaper men covering this trial and their editors that this trial by the newspapers must stop or I will summon them before me for contempt of court."

The action of Judge Hendrick in this day of freedom of speech in a country which is rapidly removing the top from everything, may be regarded as arbitrary, but it is manifest to all who are in many way connected with courts that the time has come to put on the brake. It is not only newspapers which should be made to halt in summing up cases according to their predilections, but individauls alike. Courts will soon lag superflus on the stage if corner gatherings, groups on barrels and boxes in stores and street corners are to sit in judgment upon cases which so often require legal skill to solve.

The trouble which has brought forth a warning from Judge Kendrick is chronic in nearly every community. Horseback opinions are legion, and they are generally delivered by people who know but little whereof they speak. They are often unacquainted with the facts in cases and, of course, go off half-cocked.

The police courts of cites are generally the targets of "sea lawyers," as Admiral Semmes in his book, "Four Years Afloat," calls them. This old sea dog said he always gave such characters ample opportunity to desert in order to get rid of them

Every newspaper fledging is not gifted by nature with a legal mind, nor is the rank and file in other walks of life, and men who have spent years in the close study of law have but little patience with the many who offer gratuitious advice in cases which are often above the acumen of a Philadelphia lawyer.

This vexatious Thaw case will probably be on the calendar of some court as long as the scion of the millionaire and his wife lives. It has and is still being tackled by the greatest legal minds of the day. As time goes on the great masss of the people of the world will find themselves thinking of something else, and about all that will remain upon their minds will be the fact that once upon a time Thaw shot and killed Stanford White.

Lord Palmerston was once asked to explain the Schleswig-Holstein issue. The great English politician replied, "There never was but one man upon the earth that understood the matter—that was Lord Derby, and he is dead." The legal labyrinth into which the Thaw case is being placed may be as perplexing in a few years as that referred to in the above anecodote.

WILL GIVE CHURCH BELLS FOR MUNITIONS.

The Bishop of Trieste has ordered all superfluous church bells placed at the disposal of the war ministry This is understood to mean they will be used to help meet the demand for brass for munitions.

Many years ago a prominent and much esteemed citizen of Alexandria began a crusade on church bells, and wrote several communications to the Gazette in which he urged that they had outlived their day of usefulness. Being of a studious nature, and, unfortunately , living within less t han a stone's throw of two houses of worship, his pleasure was often interrupted by the clanging of the bells especially on Sundays. Were he alive today he would undoubtedly suggest that not only the superfluous bells be metamorphosed into shrapnel or anything else, but that all such implements of his annoyance be cast into the general pile.

The Alexandrian, however, failed to bring about the change he sighed for, although he called attention to the fact that up to 1871 the ringing of a bell in the City Hall steeple was regarded as necessary to bring the city fathers together; also that steamboats running between this city and Washington rang bells nearly all the time they remained at their docks at either end.

But to return to church bells of Trieste, which lo these many years have been summoning followers of the Prince of Peace. Their pacific notes will soon cease, and instead of music their component parts will be shrieking through the vault of heaven bringing death and destruction to human beings.

There has ever been sentiment in bells. We have often heard of the bells of Moscow. There is a well-known gospel hymn entitled "Ring the Bells of Heaven," and one of the figures of speech used in the old Hebrew writings concerning the blessings of the Messianic day is "in that day there shall be holiness upon the bells of the horses," that is all commercial intercourse between man will be carried on with honesty and no attempts made to defraud each other..

The moral of the old fable of the Traveler and the Satyr is often seen. The Wayfarer first blew on his hands to warm them and later blew his breath upon his food to cool it. So with the bells: they have been made to ring out "Peace on earth, good will to men," but now they are about to be turned over to Mars for his sanguinary use.

BRYAN AND THE AMERICAN NOTE.

While we are not disposed to agree with all the bitter criticism of William Jennings Bryan since he vacated the State Department, we reaffirm what many said at the time that he left President Wilson at an inopportune time, and that his course naturally caused comment. The republican papers are still vitriolic and are saying many thing s which tend to place the former secretary in an uneviable position. The Baltimore American, a republican paper which from the first supported President Wilson in his course towards Germany, says:

"William Jennings Bryan seems not only to have misled the President, but to have deluded Berlin. In his recent tirade in New York against the newspapers Mr. Bryan sought credit for himself in his ability to keep state secrets, despite the efforts made by the representatives of the newspapers to drag them from him. He did keep one—that if it had been brought to light at the time would have provoked the execration of Americans and have caused instant demand for his dismissal from the Cabinet. It is more than likely that the complications of this act of Bryan promoted his withdrawal in the end, as it was sure to come to light in time. The country is absolutely astounded to find that when the first note to Germany was framed, the Secretary of State instead of supporting the President and the nation, sought to minimize the note. This is the only inference to be drawn from his admitted interviews with the Austrian Ambassador the substance of which was transmitted to Berlin and caused Mr. Bryan to seek cover under a signed statement by the Ambassador as to what he really meant to say in this extraordinary conversation.

"Here, then is the secret fo the weak and inconsequential response of Berlin to the most serious note that this country has addressed to a foreign government since the period of the civil War. Here, then, is the reason for the dispatch of another note. Light is thrown upon the retirement of Bryan from the Cabinet

"The facts are admitted. He had conversation with the Austrian Ambassador with regard to the nature of the note. This seems to have been taken by his hearer as minimizing the note. He says that he was misconstrued or misrendered. The Austrian Ambassador signed a statement by the Secretary of State as to the actual purport of the conversation. What a remarkable sequence of underground movements at a time when the fate of the nation was at stake."

An interview published in the Corriere d'Italia, of Rome, with Cardinal Pietro Gasparri, the Papal Secretary of State, has aroused great interest in Rome, as it is entirely taken up with the interview obtained last week by Louis Latapie, a member of the staff of the Paris La Liberte, with Pope Bendict. The Secretary of State says: "M. Latapie invented entirely many grave assertions. You must remember that a phrase isolated from the context cannot reproduce faithfully a thought, or, what is worse, it gives a meaning entirely false.'

THE REAL "MARSEILLAISE"

Rings Out When Blood Is Flowing And The Flag In Danger

A French infantryman has written a letter describing a recent action in the Argonne, where his regiment held a village heavily attacked by the enemy. There was street fighting of the fiercest kind and hand-to-hand combats in the houses and even in the cellars. "Blood," he writes, "ran in the gutters like water on a rainy day." The French soldiers were being hard pressed and reserves came with their new regiments in the nick of time.

"Suddenly the 'Marseillaise' rang out, while the bugles of the three regiments sounded the charge. From where we stood by the fire of burning houses we could see the action very clearly, and never again shall I see anything more fantastic than those thousands of red legs charging in close ranks. The grey legs began to tremble (they do not love the bayonet), and the 'Marseillaise' continued with the bugles, while our guns vomited without a pause. Our infantry had closed with the enemy. Not a shot now, but cold steel. Suddenly the charge ceased its bugle-notes. They sounded instead the call to the flag. 'Au drapeau!' Our flag was captured! Instinctively we ceased fire, thunderstruck. Then very loud and strong the 'Marseillaise rang out above the music of the bugles, calling 'Au drapeau!' (To the flag!) again and again. We saw the awful melee, the struggle to the death with that song above all the shouting and the shrieks.

"You who imagine you know 'La Marseillaise' because you have heard it played at prize distributions, must acknowledge your error. In order to know it you must have heard it, as I have tried to tell you, when blood is flowing and the flag of France is in danger."

Bryan Declines to Talk

Chicago, June 29—William J. Bryan was a guest for four hours yesterday afternoon of the Teutonic Sons of America, and made a tentative arrangement to come to Chicago in August and deliver a lecture.

Mr. Bryan was scheduled to make an address to the German society last night, but the engagement was canceled because of a disagreement over the topic, Mr. Bryan wishing to make it "peace," and the Teutonic Sons desiring an expression on American shipments of munitions to the allies.

A large delegation of German-Americans greeted him on his arrival. Mr. Bryan declined to discuss the last American note. He said he was glad to be a private citizen again.

John Salter and Robert Watkins, nexro ex-convicts, confessed yesterday at the county jail at Montgomery, Ala., to the killing of Mrs. Lassiter, white housekoper, the shooting of Wiley House, a planter, and the burning of the plantation home. The crimes were committed in Evergreen, Conecuh county, Ala., the night of June 23. Robbery was the motive for the crime, according to the negroes. They claim that they secured but $7.50.

"I suffered with stomach trouble for years and tried everything I heard of, but the only relief I got was temporary until last spring I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and procured a bottle of them at our drug store.
